to how far along these projects have gone, I can get that for you. If you also want information on revenue, then that's a separate item.

PRESIDENT: Senator Dickinson.

SENATOR DICKINSON: Mr. President, members of the body, would a comment be appropriate to Senator Marvel's comments. It would be very brief. Simply in the area of your comments on the override, Senator Marvel, I would just like to remind the body that it's entirely possible, even though LB 1955 was overridden, the line items vetoes by the Governor that had this body had the opportunity to vote on each line item veto individually, it is highly possible that none of them would have been overridden. If we do have some--I have personally some reservations about the items based on this issue only.

PRESIDENT: Senator Marsh and Senator Duis' lights are on. I would request that members confine their remarks to the matter before us which is Senator Marvel's report on the letter rather than the passage or override veto. Senator Marsh. Senator Duis.

SENATOR DUIS: Mr. President, if my remarks are not in your line of thinking, please interrupt me when I start but I want to ask Senator Marvel and also Senator Carsten here for good deliberation by this body. When these programs and these allotments are made by the Budget Committee, those people involved are also people of the state of Nebraska and they know then that their project has been approved. Now what do you want them to do? Do you want them to spend the money as fast as they can so they know they got it done or do you want them to be deliberate, do it right and have it cut off? Now you've got to make your mind up someplace. We also have to make our minds up, Senator Carsten and Senator Marvel, as to how much recession we could cause by the denying of some projects the same as we might with the road money that would be coming back to the state from the Federal government.

PRESIDENT: The chair recognizes Senator Burbach. No, we've finished our business, Senator.

SENATOR BURBACH: Is the business finished on your desk, Mr. Clerk?

PRESIDENT: Oh, I am sorry. We haven't even hit General File. Mr. Clerk.

CLERK: We could go to LB 44, if you'd like. LB 391 hasn't been printed and LB 162 is Senator Wiltse's bill and he is not present.

SENATOR BURBACH: (Mike not activated) like to make a statement prior to that. LB 391 which was set for today for--it would be the last day for it being on General File unless someone wishes to send it to a committee. The bill is not printed yet so I would ask for an extension, that it stay in that position bracketed there until the bill has been printed and into our book for five days before we make a decision, before we take it up.

PRESIDENT: Fine.

CLERK: Mr. President, LB 44 introduced by the Nebraska Retirement Systems Committee and signed by the members thereof. Read title. There are no committee amendments or other amend-
